Obstinate Case of Catarrh Local Applications Failed—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

"G. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass." "Gentlemen:—I ought to make known my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla, so that others afflicted may learn where to find a remedy for that serious and obstinate disease catarrh. It troubled me seriously. I had a discharge from the top of my head, and the usual discharge from the nose. I was unable to do anything but sit and wait. My lungs were also being rapidly affected, and I had not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla, I would have died."

A Consumptive's Grave
long ago. I have taken about ten bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which have effected a cure. Before resorting to this medicine, I used all the catarrh remedies, inhalants and local applications, but none seemed to do any good."

reach the seat of the disease. In fact I grew worse while using it. I was then told of the blood purifying powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I bought a bottle and used it. I was cured. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all liver ills, biliousness, indigestion, skin diseases, etc.

COURT HOUSE NEWS.

E. G. Willison, as attorney for the city of Massillon, has begun an action in common pleas court against the Pennsylvania company and the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling railroad company. The petition alleges that at the intersection of the two railways, at a point near the Corns mill in Massillon, the defendant erected an interlocking switch for the use of the two companies, and caused wires to be stretched across Washington avenue and a portion of Summit and Cherry streets, in said city, and that the said wires were but about five or six inches above the ground, making the sidewalk dangerous for the use of pedestrians. The petition also alleges that one Caroline Stahl, on the 7th day of December, 1893, tripped on said wires and was thrown violently to the ground, sustaining injuries to her back and spine and breaking her left arm. That the said Caroline Stahl recovered damages to the amount of $1,714.73, the amount of the damages paid Caroline Stahl and the costs.

ARRANGED FOR.

Maudie Will Settle With the County in Full—He Has Done Well.

Saturday afternoon ex-Treasurer Maudie met with the commissioners and Prosecutor Row and arranged for the payment of the balance of the shortage due the county. The amount of the shortage reported by the examiner September 1st was $19,440, which amount has all been paid in with the exception of $1,440 and the payment of the latter amount has been arranged for. At the time of the Fessler defalcation the commissioners settled with Fessler's bondsmen for one-half the amount, and at the time of Sullivan's defalcation a rebate from the original amount was also made. There has been no reduction of the amount made to Mr. Maudie, and none has been asked. Mr. Maudie at the time said he would make the amount good, all he asked was a little time. That he has been able to raise the amount in so short a time, considering the closeness of the money market, speaks well for Mr. Maudie. A great deal of unmerited criticism has been made of Mr. Maudie. He has done remarkably well under the circumstances.

TOOK FRENCH LEAVE.
Five Prisoners Break Out of the County Jail—Three Skip and Two Come Back.

The most successful jail delivery in the history of Stark county, was accomplished Friday night, when Clarence Courtney, George Connors, William Foenaght, Harry Fickenstein and Wesley Fickenstein, kicked a hole in the ceiling at the jail and went down the outside. Friday the two Fickenstein were brought down from the upper floor and placed in the lower department. Turnkey Wendling, when he closed the jail, neglected to lock them in their cells. During the early part of the night Courtney and Fickenstein improved their time by picking the lock of the large iron door leading into the north corridor. A chair was then placed at the west window, and by climbing up the bars on the window, the men were able to knock out the ventilator in the ceiling, making a hole large enough for them to climb through into the attic. One in the attic the road to liberty was easy. The blankets in the jail were collected and knotted together, forming a rope. The window in the attic was taken out, and the rope lowered to the ground.

When all the preparations were completed the men returned and awakened Connors and Foenaght, who were asleep in their cells, and, telling them they were ready to leave, asked them to go along. The boys got up and dressed and all five men went down the rope to liberty.

Courtney and the two Fickenstein started up Court street north and have not been seen since. Connors and Foenaght wandered around town all night and reported for breakfast at the usual hour this morning.

Clarence Courtney was brought over to jail from Louisville November 3, 1894, charged with highway robbery. He was indicted jointly with Charles Eremont, and entered a plea of guilty. He had not been sentenced yet, but was kept here in jail as a witness in a case against a gang of fellows who had been committing depredations in Columbiana county.

Henry and Wesley Fickenstein were arrested for burglary committed at the house of Oliver Rumsby, near Wilmet. They were evidently old hands at the business and hard men to handle. They were captured after a hot chase and four men started across the country with them, two officers driving in a buggy in front, then the two prisoners, handcuffed to a buggy and two officers in another buggy in the rear.

At the first cross roads the men turned out of the procession and only after a chase of forty miles were they captured. At the time of their arrest the men refused to give their names but were supposed to be Albert and Jake Hatfield, from Stillwater or New Philadelphia. Knowing the desperate character of the two men it is strange that no precaution was not taken to keep them securely.

George Connors and William Foenaght were brought over from Linaville for arson. They were charged with burning barns in that vicinity.

When seen in the jail this morning the men were feeling tired and sore over their last night's tramp. Foenaght said to a New reporter that they had no desire to get away, but wanted to see the town and when the other fellows told them the way was clear and asked them to go along they went, as they wanted to see the town. They had no desire to get away, as they had nothing to run away from, as they were not guilty of any crime. They wandered around the streets and lost their way, and for a long time were unable to find their way back, but finally caught a glimpse of the court house clock and came to the jail. They wanted a breath of fresh air, but the air was too cold to be pleasant.

NEW SCHEME.
J. H. Lautz of Louisville is in limbo on the charge of being a swindler and a perjurer. Lautz, or Lantz, as his name is alleged to be, some time ago sued the Pennsylvania company for $50,000 damages for injuries sustained in a wreck. The railroad company claims to have been looking up the case, and they think the fellow was never in a wreck at all, but is trying a new swindling game. He was arrested Saturday and will be taken to Cleveland for trial.

A WARM WELCOME.
John Augustine, of Massillon, applied for a divorce here last fall, but the court dismissed the case. Mrs. Augustine then went to live with her parents south of Massillon. John went to talk with her the other day and went down to the old homestead. As he opened the yard gate, he says, the folks set the dog on him. He bested the canine in the fight and pushed on to the door. As he entered a chair hit him, then crockery were rained upon his devoted head, and finally one of the family rang the dinner bell and summoned the neighbors. John then left the house and went into close quarters and he managed to escape. Now he says he will try for a divorce again.

OLD GLORY AT NORTH INDUSTRY.
A delegation of about one hundred and fifty John Mechanics from Washington, W. V., Holmes, Sergeant Jasper and Patrick Henry councils accompanied by W. E. Strasser's new band and the Daughters of America, went to North Industry, Friday, to assist in the flag presentation exercises at the school house. Delegations from Belvoir, Sparta and the North Industry councils also attended.

J. A. Biles, state secretary of the Junior Order, spoke upon the objects of the organization.

J. W. Martin, of this city, in an eloquent address, presented the flag and Allen Carnes on behalf of the township board of education, accepted the same in a neat address.

There were songs by John Eckert, with lute accompaniment, and a general feast of reason and flow of soul.

The school house was packed and citizens say the village was never so stirred up before. Dinner was served to the visiting councils in the lodge room and was pronounced a big success. The Daughters of America were served with dinner at the hotel.

The Canton delegation report a splendid time and everything enjoyable except the mud which was entirely too plentiful.

THE DEATH RECORD.

An Old Pioneer of Osnaburg Township Passes Away—Lived in Stark County Seventy One Years.

William Yohs, aged nearly seventy-nine years, died at his home on the Waynesburg road, six miles southeast of Canton, at 10 o'clock Thursday evening, of old age. Mr. Yohs was born in Washington county, Pennsylvania, in 1816. He came to Osnaburg township in 1824 with his father, who in 1811 had purchased from the government the farm upon which the deceased lived the balance of his life and finally died.

William Yohs raised a family of thirteen children, five of whom survive him, Mrs. Harriet Waddle and Mrs. Catharine Ridgely, both of North Manchester, Indiana, Mrs. Flora Siskafosse of Howenstein, Pike township George W. Yohs, principal of the West North street school in Canton, and James Yohs, who lives on the old farm. Mr. Yohs is the last of a family of seven, except Mrs. David Smith of North Manchester, well known in Stark county by those who lived here the fifty years.

The deceased was a pioneer and in his youth used to herd stock on the plains and hunt deer around the grounds now occupied by the new court house.

In politics Mr. Yohs was always a republican after the birth of that party and prior to that, a whig. He was a zealous and consistent member of the Methodist church.

The funeral services will be held Sunday at 10 o'clock at Mount Zion church.

A WOMAN STUMPER.

The Canton populists will open their campaign on Thursday evening, February 28. A woman orator has been secured from Kansas City, Kansas, in the person of Mrs. Mattie Krokell. Mrs. Krokell is the wife of one of the supreme judges of Kansas and is one of the women who has been making such a noise in the west.

STILL DEBATING.

Another four sided political debate took place at Mexico school house Wednesday night. The house was full, a number being present from town. Henry Kerch advocated poplism, J. H. Reigner, democracy; Charley Martin, republicanism and Dr. Miller prohibition. After each one had spoken thirty minutes he thought and his friends thought that the other fellows were not in it. There was plenty of fun for the audience during the entire controversy.

MRS. SHERWOOD AT THE WOMAN'S COUNCIL.
The women of the nation have taken Washington by storm, and no city in the country is better represented than Canton. Among the new committees created is one on patriotism, of which Mrs. Kate Brownlee Sherwood, of this city
